"To bring together the records of the past and to house them in buildings where they will be preserved for the use of men living in the future, a nation must believe in three things. It must believe in the past. It must believe in the future. It must, above all, believe in the capacity of its people so to learn from the past that they can gain in judgment for the creation of the future."

FOREWORD

"We regret to inform you that we find no record of your name." This is often the answer given in the Vital Statistics Department of the State Board of Health to a further request for a birth certificate by persons unable to obtain records in the town or city of birth.

Almost in every case, the inquirer asks "What will I do now? I must have a birth certificate."

To assist those whose births were never recorded, the process of filing a delayed certificate of birth came into existence. To file such a certificate, the applicant must submit adequate documentary evidence to substantiate the facts of birth as set forth by him. Baptismal or church records are suggested as excellent pieces of supporting evidence.

In this light, the Historical Records Project of the W.P.A. made a substantial contribution by compiling this volume containing not only a check list of church baptismal records but all other records maintained by individual churches mentioned in this Guide. It will be invaluable to New Hampshire born citizens who are attempting to establish age and citizenship. The check list will readily aid persons in determining whether records were maintained in the church and during the years in which their interests are focussed. Furthermore, the present location of the records is given so that in attempting to locate documentary evidence no unnecessary delay will result due to misdirected correspondence.

The work is highly commendable and my congratulations are extended to all connected with this project. I sincerely feel that more benefits than we will ever know will be derived from this publication.

By authority of a Presidential Letter, the Historical Records Survey was initiated in January 1936 as a Nation-wide undertaking of the Work Projects Administration, but did not begin operations in New Hampshire until April 7. Prior to August 31, 1939, the Survey was Federally sponsored, but since that date it has been a local project sponsored by the University of New Hampshire. Until March 1940, this project was directed by Dr. Richard G. Wood. At that time Dr. Wood became State Supervisor of Research and Records Projects, and the present State Supervisor was appointed.

The purpose of the Survey is to make accessible the records of State, county, and municipal offices. In addition, church records, including those of defunct organizations, are being inventoried so that a foundation may be laid for research in this field of social history.

Ten volumes have been issued in a series of inventories concerning town archives of New Hampshire, with a key volume, Town Government in New Hampshire. A volume entitled Guide to Depositories of Manuscript Collections in the United States--New Hampshire has been published. Five volumes of county archives and one volume on church records have been issued. For a complete list of these published works of the Survey in New Hampshire, see page 103.

Until the present volume, the publications of the Survey have been designed primarily to meet the needs of public officials, lawyers, historians, and students of government. But a situation has now arisen which calls for the publishing of certain data primarily for the use of laymen, though, at the same time, it will be useful to those engaged in research in a professional capacity.

The value of vital statistics, and the need of the ordinary citizen to know exactly where they can be found and consulted, is growing by leaps and bounds. Evidence from vital statistics may be used in establishing such rights as those to old age assistance, pensions, employment under child labor laws, citizenship and voting privileges. Such evidence may be used in establishing inheritance rights, parentage, and the legal right to marry. Vital statistics are particularly important at the present time in determining the ages of men affected by draft legislation, and in supplying required birth certificates for persons employed in industrial war work.

Accordingly, the Historical Records Surveys throughout the Nation have been asked to prepare a set of guides showing concisely what vital statistics exist and where they are located. A guide to vital statistics serves more than one purpose. Persons may use it as a convenient reference to the vital statistics in the place where they live in the same way that they would use the card catalog at the library as a key to the books in the library. But, even more important, a man born in New Hampshire, but now living in California, may use the guide to determine the probability of the existence of his birth record in his native New Hampshire town. If, for example, he was born in 1899, and if the guide shows that birth records for that year are still available in his native town, it is extremely probable that his own birth record can be found there.

Preface

While public archives are the principal source of vital statistics, those in church records furnish a valuable supplementary source; and the present volume deals with church vital statistics exclusively. A companion volume containing a guide to public vital statistics will be issued. These volumes are to be regarded as preliminary guides issued because of the current necessity. It is planned to issue more complete volumes at a later date.

The present volume, the preliminary guide to vital statistics contained in church records, requires some explanation. In regard to the vital statistics kept by the Roman Catholic and Protestant Episcopal Churches, this guide can be regarded as complete.

An inventory of the records of the Roman Catholic Church was published in 1938. Abstracts of the vital statistics contained therein are included in the present volume; and abstracts of the vital statistics contained in the Protestant Episcopal publication, which is about to be issued, are also included in the present volume. For other denominations the contents of this volume must be regarded as less complete both denominationally and in regard to individual churches. No church records of denominations, other than the Roman Catholic and the Episcopal, have been completely surveyed; and there have been times when it has been necessary to suspend work in certain individual churches before the listing of records was brought to a close. Hence some of the entries may present only part of the picture. Then, also, it has been necessary to prepare some of the entries from preliminary field reports, the rechecking of which has been prohibited by lack of time and opportunity. If a recheck has been made, it is quite possible that some errors would have been discovered, but since time is passing rapidly, and the need is pressing, it seems best to publish the information as it exists in the Survey files in the hope and belief that the margin of error, if any, is small; and that the volume now released will prove of real and immediate value.

The Introduction sketches briefly the rise of some of the principal denominations in New Hampshire, discusses the relationship of Church and State in early New Hampshire history, and summarizes the types of church vital statistics listed in the Guide.

Entries are arranged under towns and cities in their alphabetical sequence, and thereunder by the alphabetical sequence of denominations. Under the denominations appear, also in alphabetical sequence, the names of individual churches. Numbers of volumes, numbers of containers, also locations when given, refer to the time of listing. Some changes may have occurred between that time and the time of publication.

It will be necessary for persons wishing to obtain information from the records listed in this publication to write to the churches concerned to learn specific locations, except in some instances where the location is given in the entry.

Preface

The entries were written by Harry J. Kean and Arthur J. Kennedy under the superintendence of Beatrice B. Calnan who also prepared the index. Editorial work was done by Gordon F. Palmer, State Editor. The stencils were cut by Helena Cunningham and the mimeographing was done by Rita Duffley. The Guide was prepared in accordance with technical instructions from the Washington Office of Historical Records Survey Projects; it was reviewed before publication by Donald A. Thompson, National Editor.

The Survey wishes to express its appreciation for the cooperation given and the courtesy shown its workers by clergymen and church officers. Labor funds have been furnished by the Work Projects Administration. The Survey wishes to acknowledge contributions for non-labor costs by the County of Hillsborough, the City of Manchester, and other cities and towns throughout the State.

Copies of this inventory are distributed to Federal and local governmental offices, to State officials in New Hampshire, and to State Registrars of Vital Statistics, libraries, and institutions of learning throughout the United States and its territorial possessions. Requests for information concerning the published volumes should be addressed to the State Supervisor, Administration Building, Lincoln and Silver Streets, Manchester, New Hampshire.

INTRODUCTION

The religious background of New Hampshire is traceable to many influences, the very earliest being that of the Church of England, though other influences rapidly came to the fore. Capt. John Mason, the nominal founder of New Hampshire, was a zealous member of the Church of England.¹ Among articles brought over by one of Captain Mason's agents in 1629 was a set of church furniture. An inventory of goods at Dover in 1633 listed a psalter, a communion cup and cover and a communion table cloth. The inventory for Portsmouth in 1633 included 2 service books, and, in 1635, a great Bible, service books, and articles for the celebration of Holy Communion.² Captain Mason's will urged the maintenance of a preacher "in some church or chapel or other public place that shall be appointed for divine worship and service within * * * New Hampshire."³ It can be assumed that Mason intended the form of worship to be that of the Church of England.

At least one of the Hilton brothers who founded Dover possessed Episcopal sentiments, but the first church organized in Dover — about ten years after the first settlement — was Puritan⁴ (Congregational).

At some time prior to 1640 a parish of the Church of England was organized and built a church and parsonage at Portsmouth.⁵ Some years later this property came into possession of the Congregational Church.⁶

The colonization of Exeter was due to the Antinomian controversy which caused the flight of Anne Hutchinson's brother-in-law, John Wheelwright, to the New Hampshire wilderness, where he founded a religious settlement at the falls of the Squamscot (Exeter) River.⁷

Puritan churches composed mainly of settlers from Massachusetts were Congregational in their government and gradually the name Congregational became used to denote them.⁸ Presbyterianism was brought to New Hampshire at an early date by settlers from northern Ireland.⁹ The Friends appeared about 1701; Baptists, 1755; Free Will Baptists, 1780; Universalists, 1781; and Methodists, 1797.¹⁰

The fifth society of Shakers in the United States was organized at Canterbury, February 10, 1792, and the following year an organization was effected among the Shakers of Enfield. Elder Job Bishop was authorized to unite the Canterbury and Enfield societies into the bishopric of New Hampshire.¹ The Christian Church in Allenstown, referred to by John Dowst as "one of the earliest in the history of the denomination", was organized in 1807.² By 1825 members of the Roman Catholic Church had formed a parish and built a church in Claremont.³

Immediately after William Ellery Channing proclaimed the Unitarian theology at Baltimore in 1819 at least one New Hampshire church--the South Parish (Congregational) in Portsmouth--became Unitarian.⁴ Mrs. Mary Baker Eddy whose experiences led to the discovery of Christian Science in 1866, was born in the New Hampshire town of Bow.⁵

A close relation between Church and State existed in the early days in New Hampshire towns. The town built the meeting-house and supported the minister. The meeting-house also served as the town house. The religious persuasion of the majority determined what should be the established church in the particular town. Actions in regard to church matters were recorded in the Town Clerks' Record Books.⁶ For instance, there are included in the Town Clerks' Record Books of Canterbury ministers' returns of Marriage, ministers' letters of acceptance, and minutes of meetings of the First Congregational Society, (2 years only);⁷ there are included in the Town Clerks' Record Books of Sanbornton church membership affidavits, a report of the committee on hiring minister, ministers' settlement proposals, a ministerial tax protest, sale of parsonage land, and sale of pews.⁸

In many towns the town church⁹ was Congregational, as for example, in the Town of Greenland.¹⁰ Town churches in the Londonderry section, settled by the Scotch-Irish, were Presbyterian.¹¹ In Bedford, settled from Londonderry, the same was true.¹² Holderness furnishes the only definite example of a town church of the Episcopal denomination¹ though Portsmouth very nearly came within that category.² In Allenstown a church organized in 1807 by the Christian denomination can probably be regarded as the town church, since the town aided in building the meeting-house used by that denomination and sold the pews.³

Legal provisions were made to excuse persons not of the established order from taxation toward the support of the town church,⁴ provided they regularly attended meetings of their own persuasion; but this provision was not so liberal as it might seem, for, as a law of 1770 pointed out, the meetings so attended would have to be those of a society or parish "tolerated by Authority."⁵ As late as 1805 at least one church was compelled to appeal to the legislature in order to secure denominational recognition.⁶ An act in 1819, sometimes referred to as the Toleration Act,⁷ established beyond dispute the equality of all denominations of Christians.

Both the Protestant Episcopal and the Roman Catholic Churches are particularly exacting in their requirements about the keeping of vital statistics. A canon of the Protestant Episcopal Church, as printed in the 1853 Convention Journal, required every clergyman to keep a register of baptisms, confirmations, communicants, marriages, and funerals. The register was to "specify the name and time of birth of the child baptized, with the names of the parents and sponsors; the names of the adults baptized, and of their witnesses; the names of the parties married; the names and ages of the persons buried; and also the time when each rite was performed."⁸ These requirements were subsequently repeated.⁹

At the 1867 Convention of the Episcopal Church, Bishop Carlton Chase urged pastors to be careful and exact in the matter of keeping registers.¹⁰ The importance of making and preserving registers was stressed in 1920 by a report of the Committee on the Preservation of Records which had been set up within the Episcopal Church. The committee pointed out that clergymen were often asked for baptismal or marriage records.¹¹

It is the practice of the Episcopal Church, whenever confirmations and baptisms occur in boys' or girls' schools and camps, or army camps to see that the record of the event is sent to the Episcopal Church in the home town of the individual confirmed or baptized. In some instances this practice applies to summer chapels.

The Code of Canon Law of the Roman Catholic Church requires every pastor

Introduction

to keep records of baptisms, confirmations, marriages, and deaths. The keeping and safeguarding of these records must be according to approved ecclesiastical usage and regulations of the local Bishop. On the confirmation or marriage of a baptized person, the record of the confirmation or marriage is added to his baptismal register. The pastor or his assistant, immediately after the marriage ceremony, enters in the matrimonial register the names of the contracting parties and witnesses, date and place of marriage, and other information required by custom and the regulations of the Bishop. The pastor inscribes in a special book the name of the minister of Confirmation, the names of those confirmed, and the date and place of the ceremony. The pastor is required, after a burial, to note in the death records the names and age of the deceased, the names of parents and husband or wife, date of death, Sacraments administered, and date and place of burial.¹

In many Protestant churches, in addition to the records regularly kept by the church, the pastor keeps a personal record of baptisms, marriages, and funerals. Supplementary information in these records often include birth dates and the names of parents.

Some vital statistics are kept by the churches of practically all denominations, but, outside of the Roman Catholic and Protestant Episcopal Churches the extent to which these records are kept generally varies according to the individual churches, church officials, and clergymen.

There are no central depositories of church archives in New Hampshire. Some of the early records have been deposited in the New Hampshire Historical Society and where this has occurred it has been so stated in the entry. Assistance in securing copies of church vital records may be obtained from the Executive Secretary of the Protestant Episcopal Church, 63 Green St., Concord, N.H.; the Chancellor of the Roman Catholic Church, 145 Lowell St., Manchester, N.H.; the Secretary of the Baptist Convention of New Hampshire, 22 Amherst St., Manchester, N.H.; the Minister of the Congregational-Christian Conference, 85 North State St., Concord, N.H.

Unless otherwise stated requests for information regarding baptismal certificates should be addressed to the clerk of the various churches except in the case of the Roman Catholic and the Protestant Episcopal Churches, when this request should be addressed to the respective rector or priest.

It is not generally the custom in New Hampshire to charge for copies of church vital records.

Entries have been written to show the following information

Denomination first item on left: The name of the denomination is not repeated for other churches of the same denomination within the town or city.

Name of Church: Indented under denomination followed by street or post office address within the town or city; at the right on same line, the date of the organization of the church and the date the church became defunct, if such occurred.

Records: Indented under name of church showing (1) dates the records cover. In most instances where the vital records are in the minute books, the dates cover the minutes and it is possible that the vital records in these books do not cover the inclusive dates of the minutes. Where the dates for the vital records within the minutes have been found, they have been entered to show the break-down (see p.11, Chester, Congregational); (2) if the records are part of the minute books (see p.2, Amherst, Baptist), if the records are at another church (see p.2, Alton, Catholic), if the records are kept in vital registers (see p.2, Andover, Congregational); (3) if records are deposited at Libraries (see p.4, Auburn, Methodist), Historical Societies (see p. 11, Chester, Presbyterian), or at National Church Offices (see p.7, Berlin, Russian Orthodox).
